Bart's Biggest Failure:

Bart's biggest failure was choosing the Angular platform to build a large scale LMS system without building smaller apps with it first.
I could have built a few test apps – and also tried React, and if I had, I would have leaned that React was a better framework – and I would have spent less time banging my head against the wall trying to build this large-scale LMS project with Angular.